BAATH ARAB SOCIALIST PARTY - NATIONAL LEADERSHIP

DATE: 12/6/2011 NO.99

National Dialogue...Wide climates, Comprehension and Seriousness Reform Procedures came as public demands not as colonial Threats

National Secretary General of Al-Baath Socialist Party, president Bashar al-Assad's reform procedures are important steps towards pushing the development and reform program forward.

Forming the national dialogue body is a crucial station that will serve as the foundation of public reality. It will tackle current issues and overcome chaos and destabilization.

Syria's future and awakening:

President Assad discussed with the national dialogue body forming the general bases of the intended dialogue to provide a proper environment for all national trends to express their ideas, present their suggestions and notions regarding the social, economic and political life future in Syria.

This approach will enhance hope and stability in Syria which is the symbol of resistance and the defender of Arab rights and dignity.

We are completely sure that the serious national dialogue process will benefit from the lessons of the conspiracy which manipulated the legitimate demands of the masses to undermine Syria's national stances and coherence.

The national dialogue committee's options:

Economic and social reforms should be obvious priorities in the agenda of the national dialogue committee.

The previous stage was marked with public dissatisfaction with the weakening of the public sector, high prices, Unemployment, the inactive combat of corruption, and bad daily routine.

The Most Important category of All:

What increased masses dissatisfaction in Syria are removing the subsidy of some materials, undermining the social role of the state and the Policy of giving priority to the requirements of market economy.

Here we can sense the importance of our president's wise vision of reading the status concerning those who have the least income in Syria. President Assad considered this category as the most important in the Syrian society because it is the real tool of resistance. It's obvious to enhance and respond to the demands of this category.

We are confident that the serious national dialogue ongoing in Syria will enhance its Present and future supported by its people.

Of course, there are different point of views about some issues, but we all agree that the interests of our homeland and nation are the most important among all.

National Dialogue...Continuation

Balance between Decent Living and Economy:

Correcting the Syrian path is an urgent need to reach the right equation between the requirement of the economy and the decent living standards for all the Syrian people. This equation also needs a reconsideration of the masses as the maintainers of the foundation of a Strong and prosperous Arab unity.

We have faith in our people's awareness and abilities. The ongoing reform procedures will meet our masses' and country's national needs. This response comes as a continuation of our party's reform process in his ninth and tenth conferences and not as a dictated measures from the colonial threats led by the USA and the west.

Seriousness of Political Solutions:

The proposals of the national dialogue committee members about the mechanism, seriousness, and timing of the dialogue promote optimism and future aspirations.

The dialogue will involve all parties in the interest of our homeland, nation and citizens

The serious political treatment of the crisis is clear and will lead to a comprehensive national dialogue. The climates are now encouraging and doors are widely open before all political parties inside and outside. The general amnesty issued by president Assad along with the formation of Parties Law have enhanced the seriousness of this political treatment.

Enhancing Confidence:

Although Syria has lost a lot of pure blood and economic strength, we are confident that she will Emerge out from the crisis even stronger and more coherent.

The dominant spirit will be tolerance, brotherhood and national giving; everybody's roof will be the interest of homeland and stability.

Undoubtedly, the national dialogue, the general amnesty and the reform procedures will promote security and stability in Syria. This again reflects our party's philosophy which proves that justice, freedom and equality are the real basis of society.

It's obvious for the national dialogue to discuss opinion freedom at length to enhance the right national public opinion. We are certain that the reform procedures will distinguish those who work for the benefit of Syria and those who want to undermine and destroy it.

Now, it's time to compensate the frightful losses and restore the stabilized and strong Syria.

Al-Baath and the Arab Solidarity

Experiments have proved that the Arab unity is the effective weapon through which Arabs can prevail. Arabs always passed their side differences at the time of crisis towards unity and solidarity.

That was clear when Arabs held their conference in Khartoum in 1967, October War 1973 and many other events before and after.

In the light of globalization, smart power, regional and international masses, Schemes targeted the Arab Homeland to force it to melt into projects such as the Greater Middle Eastern Project and union for the Mediterranean.

The only way out of this crisis is the Arab unity or at least their political and economic solidarity.

One Vision in the face of Challenges:

The very bad Arabic situation negatively affects the interests of Arab people. Now more than ever, we are in dire need to unify our vision to confront the challenges and risks that face our Arab nation.

Now we are invited to activate the Joint Arab action to fix the current national system or replace it with a new one that meets the aspirations and goals of the Arab people through Joint Arab mechanism.

Arab Solidarity as a transitive Step:

Al-Baath Party suggested the Arab solidarity as a transitive step towards the Arab unity.

Since started, our party has insisted on the Arab solidarity. The Baathists were the first to support the Palestinian issue and other Arab affairs from the Gulf to the Ocean.

Our Baath party and our Baathists have been loyal to the notion of the Arab solidarity and the Joint Arab action in the interest of the Arab people and Arab nation. This idea was represented by Syria in the twentieth Arab summit in Damascus entitled 'Summit of the Joint Arab action' where the National Secretary General of The Baath Socialist Party, president Bashar al-Assad stressed the Arab solidarity and unity.

In the absence of solidarity and coordination in the Arab world, risks and challenges are growing day after day. The only way out of such challenges is enhancing solidarity, joint Arab action and adopting a clear and united vision away from locality.

Locality can't help us facing all the challenges and preventing seduction. Now it is time for us all to realize that our future as Arabs depends on solidarity and unity as the only solution against current challenges.

Reviving Arab-Arab Solidarity :

Arabs have reaped the fruits of solidarity in many historical events. In many countries, they fought battles against Baghdad Pact, Eisenhower Doctrine and Warsaw Pact.

Arab masses also supported Egypt against the Tripartite aggression after the nationalization of the Suez Canal in 1956. They also assisted the Algerian National Revolution to gain independency. Arab masses also backed up Syria and Egypt in October Liberation War and they assisted the Lebanese resistance which defeated the Israeli Army in Lebanon.

Today - with a clear decline in many Arab fields - we are invited to revive the Arab solidarity in order to prevent our enemies from plotting against us and to achieve development on all levels in the interest of our nation.
